

Elcie F. Salzano Masini, Ph.D. in Psychology:

Professor with tenure of Mackenzie Presbyterian University, UPM, where she coordinated the first university in Brazil preparing educators to deal with deaf blind people. She served as adviser for nine Master dissertations with researches about deafblindness at UPM. Associated teacher of São Paulo University, USP, in the field of Special Education. Adviser of two Master dissertation and two PHD Theses with researches about deafblindness at USP. Organizer of a book, published in 2002, about people with sensorial deficiencies and deafblindness, in collaboration with national and international authorities in education, psychology, phonotherapeutics and medical doctors.